But one thing let me tell you, John,
Before you make your start:
There's more in being honest, John,
Twice o'er than being smart.
Though rogues may seem to flourish, John,
And sterling worth to fail,
Oh, keep in view the good and true,
"Twill in the end prevail.

Don't think too much of money, John, And dig and delve and plan, And rake and scrape in every shape, To hoard up all you can.

Though fools may count their riches, In shillings, pounds and pence, The best of wealth is youth and health, And good, sound common sense.

And don't be mean or stingy, John,
But lay a little by
Of what you earn—you soov will learn
How fast 'twill multiply.
So when old age comes creeping on,
You'll have a goodly store
Of wealth to furnish all your needs—
And maybe something more.

And maybe something more. There's shorter cuts to fortune, John, We see them every day;
But those who save their self-respect Climb up the good old way.
"All is not gold that glitters," John, And makes the vulgar stare, And those we deem the richest, John, Have oft the least to spare.

Don't meddle with your neighbors, John,
Their sorrows or their cares;
You'll find enough to do, my boy,
To mind your own affairs.
The world is full of idle tongues—
You can afford to shirk;
There's lots of people ready, John,
To do such dirty work.

Be good, be pure, be noble, John;
Be honest, brave, be true.
And do to others as ye would
That they should do to you.
And place your trust in God, my boy,
"Though fiery darts be hurled,
Then you can smile at Satan's rage,
And face a frowning world."

all these weaknesses, count them on her fingers and learn them by heart. The fingers of both hands will not be too many. Then let her study up these weaknesses, a mesh for every one, and the secret is here. Is he fond of a good dinner? Let her tighten the mesh around him with fragrant coffee, light bread and good things generally, and reach her through his stomach. Is he fond of flattery about his looks? Let her study the dictionary for sweet words if her supply gives out. Does he like to hear her talk about his brilliant intellect? Let her pore over the engrelopæ dia to give variety to the depth of her dia to give variety to the depth of her admiration. Piattery is a good thing to study up, at all hazards, in its delicate shades, but it must be skillfully done. The harpy who may try to coax him away will not do it absurdly.

Is he fond of beauty? Here's the rub—let her be bright and tidy; that is half the victory. Next, let her bang her hair (metaphorically) and keep up with the times. A husband who sees his wife look like other people is not going to consider her "broke down." Though it is a common sneer that a woman has admitted that her sex considman has admitted that her sex considers more, in marrying, the tastest of her friends than her own, yet it must be considered ludicrous that a man looks at his wife with the same eyes that other people do. Is he fond of literary mat-ters? Listen to him with wide open eyes when he talks of them. A man doesn't care so much for a literary wife if only she be literary enough to appreciate him. If she have literary inclinaif only she be literary enough to aptreciate him. If she have literary inclinations, let her keep them to herself.

Men love to be big and great to their wives. That's the reason why a helpless little woman can marry three times to a sensible, self-reliant woman none. Cultivate helplessness. Is he curicus? Oh, then, you have a treasure; you can always keep him it you have a secret and only keep it carefully. Is he jealous? Then, woman, this is not for you; cease reading; cease torturing that fretted heart which wants you for his own, and teach him confidence. Is he ugly in temper and fault-finding? Give him a dose of his own medicine, skilfully done. Is he deceitful? Pity him for his weakness, treat him as one who is born with a physical defect, but put your wits to work—it is a bad case. It is well not to be too tame. Men do not waste their powder and shot on hens and barnyard fowls; they like the pleasure of pursuing wild game—quail and grouse and deer.

A quaile is a good model for a wife—neat and trim, with a pretty, swift way about it and just a little capricious.

neat and trim, with a pretty, swift way about it, and just a little capricious. Nover let yourself become an old story; be just a little uncertain. Another important fact is, don't be too good; it hurts his feelings and becomes monotonous. Cultivate a pleasant voice, so that this very mortal man may have his conscience prick him when he is in jeopardy; its pleasant ring will haunt him much more than a shrill one. It is hard to do all this, besides taking care of the bables, and looking after vexatious household cares, and smiling when of the bables, and looking after vexatious household cares, and smiling when he comes home; but it seems a necessary.

"To be born a woman is to be born a martyr," says a husband who for ten years has watched in amazement his wife treading the wine-press of her existence. It is a pitiful sight to some men. But if the wife does not make a study of these things the harpy will, to steal away the honor from his silver hairs when he is full of years, and the father of sons and daughters.

At the same time, gude wife, keep from trying any of these things on any other mortal man but your own. These rules are only evolved in order to "keep a husband." The poor weak creature would rather be good than bad, and it is a woman's duty to help him by every means in her power.

It was necessary, on a certain occasion in court, to compel a witness to testify as to the way in which a Mr. Smith treated his horse. "Well, sir," said the lawyer, with a sweet and winning smile—a smile intended to drown all suspicion as to the ulterior purposes—"how does Mr. Smith generally ride a horse?" The witness looked up innocently and replied: "Generally astraddle, sir, I believe." The lawyer and an interest in the Woodworth planing machine was the foundation of his persperity. A Singular Death. We have just been informed of the death of a young negro man which took place recently in Bullock's Creek Townleft home he took his gun, ostensibly to go hunting: but on Saturday last, six weeks after he dissappeared some consternation ensued by the accidental discovnation ensued by the accidental discovery, in a lonely place in the woods, about a mile from the residence of Mr. Elias Inman, of the body of a man apparently suspended to a tree. The negro who made the discovery gave the alarm at once, an investigation proved that it was the body of the missing negro. His coat and gun were lying at the foot of the tree. The theory of his death is that he had chased game of some kind to this tree, which was hollow, and in his tree. The theory of his death is that he had chased game of some kind to this tree, which was hollow, and in his pursuit of it had climbed the tree, intending to support himself by a projecting limb with his right hand while reaching into the hollow with his left. But it is evident that while thus swinging by his right hand to the limb, and his left inserted in the tree, the limb broke, and his left hand was so caught in the aperture that extrication was impossible, and to add to his torture it was found that his left shoulder was dislocated. In this condition he died from slow starvation almost in sight of babitations, but unfortunately in a locality seldom frequented, while if he made cries of distress they did not at tract attention. An inquest was held on Saturday by Trial Justice Davidson, and the verdict of the jury was in accordance with the facts above stated; but, as the papers have not been filed in the Clerk's office, we were unable to learn the unfortunate negroe's name.—Yorkville Enquirer Jan. 5.

Hopeful Jan. 5.

Gen. Grant has recently reached the conclusion that Fitz John Porter has been treated with great injustice, and it is predicted that he will exert his influence with the Presdient to take some action in favor of Porter. It is not known here that Gen. Grant's opinion in relation to this case have undergone so complete a revolution as indicated by the announcement above mentioned, but it is reported that his view of Gen. Porter's case now is not what it was, and that he is in favor of a new hearing or a new examination of the evidence. For several years no one could have been more severe upon Gen.

NOTHING LIKE LATIN.—Andrew Jackson was once making a stump speech out West, in a small village. Just as he was concluding, Amos Kendall, who sat behind him, whispered!

"Tip 'er a little Latin, General. They won't be satisfied without it."

The man of iron will, instantly thought of a few phrases he knew, and in a voice of thunder wound up his speech by exclaiming—

"Epluribus unum!—sine qua non!—ne plus ultra—multum in parvo!"

The effect was tremendous, and the shouts could be heard for miles. of a new hearing or a new examination of the evidence. For several years no one could have been more severe upon Gen. Porter than Gen. Grant, and it is said in those years he asserted that Porter ought to have been shot. While President he refused to grant Porter's application for a reopening of his case. The conclusions of the board of review, organized by President Hayes, were sent to Congress and a memorable debate ensued in the Senate, in the course of which Senator Logan spoke for three days upon the question. The Democrats at first attempted not only to restore Porter to the army, but give him full pay for the years that had elapsed since his dimissal. The bill which was passed in the Senate December 14, 1880, authorize the President to appoint Porter to the srmy, by and with the consent of the Senate, within eighteen months from the enactmen of the bill, provided the appointment should give him no higher rank than colonel on the retired list, and Portershould receive no pay or allowance for the time intervening between his dismissal and his appointment his dismissal and his appointment should give him no higher rank than colonel on the retired list, and Portershould receive no pay or allowance for the time intervening between his dismissal and his appointment when the course of the time intervening between his dismissal and his appointment when the course of the time intervening between his dismissal and his appointment when the course of the time intervening between his dismissal and his appointment when the course of the time intervening between his dismissal and his appointment when the course of the time intervening between his dismissal and his appointment when the consent of the second sot a surgeon and retired to a sequestered nook, where they exit the question of possession. The Yankee Invasion.

It has come to pass in this good year of our Lord that the Yankees are again invading the South. About twenty years ago they came with fire and sword, but now they come to invest their mon-ey in factories, railroads, plantations, patent medicines faro banks and other artist painted him the act of refusing to banks. Your real live Yank is ready to put money in anything that will yield money. He has a lasting longing for the root of all evil that urges him for-ward forever. But as soon as he gets one railroad he wants another. And when he gets two he wants a system of roads that will tap vast sections of coun-try. If he can't do all this alone he will "go in" with others and form a syndicate. But he never stops trying, build-ing improving, extending, developing, watching and working. As thousands of live Yankees, with millions of dolor rive Tankees, with millions of dollars, are coming South, a veritable Southern boom is being started. The Yanks have captured Atlanta, Richmond, Charleston and New Orleans, and there is a report that a raid with there is a report that a raid will soon be made on Vicksburg. A WOMAN'S STORY OF HUSBANDS.

One Who Sees That the World is Wicked and Means to Overcome It.

We hear much about the art of winning a husband. Let us take a step further and make a study out of keeping a husband. If he is worth winning he is worth keeping.

This is a wicked world, and man is dreadfully mortal. Let us take him as he is, not as he ought to be. In the first place, he is very weak. GOOD COFFEE.

Everybody wants it, but very few get it, because most people do not know how to select coffee, or it is spolled in the roasting or making. To obviate these difficulties has been our study. Thurber's package Coffees are selected by an expert who understands the art of blending various flavors. They are roasted in the most perfect manner (it is impossible to roast well in small quantities), then put in pound packages (in the bean, not ground,) bearing our rignature as a guarantee of genuineness, and each package contains the Thurber recipe for making good Coffee. We pack two kinds, Thurber's "No. 34," strong and pungent, Thurber's "No. 41," nild and rich. One or the other will suit every taste. They have the three great points, good quality, honest quantity, reasonable price. Ask your Grocer for Thurber's roanted Offee in pound pack-ages, "No. 34" or "No. 41." Do not be put off with any other kind-your own palate will tell you what is best. Where persons desire it we also, furnish the "Ideal" Coffee-pot, the simplest, best and cheapest coffee-pot in existence Grocers who sell our Coffee keep them.

Ask for descriptive circular.

Respectfully, &c.,
H. K. & F. B. THURBER & CO., Importers, Wholesale Grocers and Coffee Roasters, New York.

P. S .- As the largest dealers in food products in the world, we consider it our interest to manufacture only pure and whole-some goods and pack them in a tidy and satisfactory manner. All goods bearing our name are guaranteed to be of superior quality, pure and wholesome, and dealers are authorized-to refund the purchase price in any case where customers have cause for dissatisfaction. It is therefore to the interest of both dealers and conaimers to use Thurber's brands.
